Every week we receive several cartons of books from our main office in Chicago. At the same time, they send us a list describing what they have sent us. We examine the contents of the cartons to see whether we have received all the books on the list. If everything is correct, we simply sign the list and return it to Chicago. If there is any difference between the description on the list and the books actually received, we write a letter explaining the difference and ask for confirmation of the list.

1. Books are received _____. (จ.1)

a. daily

b. weekly

c. monthly

d. at irregular intervals

2. One thing we have to do with the books when we received them is _____. (จ.1)

Read the passage and choose the best answer. No. 6 – 10

Museums are often full of interesting and beautiful things but in most museums, you can only look at the things there. You must not touch them. This is not very interesting for most of us. People want to touch things. They want to touch them and play with them. This is how we learn about things. If we are interested in something we learn about it easily. If we are bored, we do not learn very much. Some museums, however are different. At the Boston Children's Museum in the U.S.A, for example, young people can use computers and other modern machines. They can also make films and play games. They can have fun, and they learn a lot at the same time.
